

The FCC is supposed to serve the public. With all the past mergers, the public is getting less and less news, most of it slanted towards the present administration. It reminds me of the Soviet Union with its government-controlled media. What happened to freedom of the press? Do your job and don't permit any more consolidation of media among a few rich owners. We need a variety of news media.